SEPTUAGESIMA SUNDAY.

Genesis 1, 1, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth."—First Lesson.
Revelation xxi, 1, "And I saw a new heaven and a new earth."—Second Lesson.
The Epistle for the day speaks of the interval as a race or a fight; the gospel, as a day's work in a vineyard.

Whence? and Whither? cries the soul.
Here they cradle, there they go.
Here they tell of man's first birth.
There they sing new heaven, new earth.
Twist the two a race to run.
Till thy earthly course be done.
Life is battle; life is toil.
Man was born to till the soil.
Who for fight the palm would bear
Plants his blows per beats the air.
Whatsoever the Master send,
Work unwearying to the end.
May they have who strive to teach
Grace to practice what they preach!
Made from dust and prone to sin,
May they feel God's breath within!

MEERSCHAUM.

How It Is Mined and Dried and Prepared

Meerschaum is extracted in the same way as coal. Pits from 25 feet to 125 feet deep are dug, and as soon as the vein is struck horizontal galleries, sometimes of considerable length, are made, but more than two galleries are seldom to be found in one pit. The stone as extracted is called "ham tash" (rough block) and is soft enough to be easily cut with a knife. It is white, with a yellowish tint, and is covered with a red clayey soil of about one inch thick. In this state the blocks are purchased by dealers on the spot, not by weight nor by measurement, but according to approximate quantity, either per load of three sacks or per cartload, the price varying from $5 to $30 per load, according to quality. These rough blocks are dried and subjected to certain preparation before being conveyed to Esaki-Shehr. Some of them are as small as a walnut, while others attain the size of a cubic foot. Those which combine regularity of surface and size are the best. The manipulation required before they are ready for exportation is long and costly. The clayey soil attached is removed and the meerschaum dried. In summer exposure for five or six days to the sun's rays suffices, but in winter a room heated to the required temperature is required, and the drying process takes eight or ten days. When well dried, the blocks are well cleaned and polished. Then they are sorted into about 12 classes, each class being packed with great care in separate cases and each block being wrapped in cotton wool.—Engineering and Mining Journal.

Training a Locomotive.

It may not be generally known that locomotives intended for express trains require as much training in their way, for fast running as do race horses. The Pennsylvania Railroad company builds its own engines, and those built for express trains are known as class P. They are very large and built, with slight variations, after the pattern of the big English engine imported into this country several years ago and which at that time was a curiosity in its way. When one of these big engines is taken out of the shops to be placed on the road, instead of putting it to the work it is intended for at once it is run for two or three weeks on some one of the local branches in order to train it, so to speak, for faster running. By this means all the bearings and journals connected with the running gear become settled to their work, for should anything about the new machine not work harmoniously there is ample time to adjust the defect. Usually the new engine proves troublesome on account of its propensity to make fast time, and at almost every station the train is found to be a little ahead of schedule time and must wait for from ten seconds to a minute.—Philadelphia Record.

A Greek Devil Belief.

The Greek conception of their devil, whom they call Yama, makes that personage one of the most satanic of the whole devil tribe. According to their ideas of him, he is 240 miles high and the hairs on his body stand out like palm trees on a mountain side. He punishes the damned beings submitted to his charge by putting them in beds of boiling oil, saving their bodies in two, pointing molten lead in their ears and such other little pranks as pulling out their tongues, too and finger nails and gouging out their eyes. He is a heartless devil of the most devilish kind and has many other exquisite little tortures laid up for the helpless wretch consigned to his "chamber of horrors."—St. Louis Republic.

Italian Superstition.

Superstition reigns tyrannically in many rural districts in Italy. Lately a fortune teller prophesied to a young lawyer and his sister, living near Noto, Sicily, that on the evening before a certain feast day both would die a violent death. This so affected the minds of the poor dupes that they became insane and rushed shrieking through the streets. A brother of these unfortunates then came somehow to the conclusion that the calamity was due to the witchcraft of their stepmother, and in a fit of blind rage he killed the poor woman with a hoe.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The state of Florida has a smaller population than most of the southern states, being estimated at only $30,032,000.

It is estimated that fully $100,000 of stock in the Carson Athletic Club will be taken by this evening.

E. C. Ambrose and wife, Oakland, and T. Thurston, Salt Lake; were guests at the Hotel Reno last night.

Lange & Schmitt have the largest and best assortment of stores in the State, also crockery and glassware.

The case of Summerfield & Torreyson against Wm. Thompson at the Justice Court yesterday attracted considerable attention.

Chas. Lake has a finely selected stock of blank books and stationery, as well as the latest magazines and periodicals.

S. J. Hodgkinson keeps everything in the drug and toilet line and he thoroughly understands his business. His prices cannot be beaten by any dealer in the State.

Constable McInnis found a pair of gold rimmed spectacles on a questionable character last night. It is thought they had been stolen from someone. The owner can procure them from the Constable.

The egg throwing episode at Virginia a few nights ago during a visit of the A. P. A. Council from Carson came near causing a serious row at Virginia on Monday night. The citizens of Virginia deplore the incident.

M. P. Light, representing the Pacific States Building & Loan Co., was in town yesterday. His company expects to place several thousand dollars in loans in Reno and vicinity. He goes to Carson to-day, but will return the latter part of the week.

The reason why the men of Reno are seriously thinking of calling an indignation meeting is all because Sol Levy is continually getting in new articles to interest the ladies. Just now the ladies are simply wild over some new lovely capes and novelty neckwear which he just received, and the general verdict is that for beauty nothing like it has ever been seen in Reno.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Westlake returned last evening from a three and a half months tour through the mountains and valleys of California. They left here on the 31st of July in a private conveyance, visited the Yosemite Valley and the Big Trees, drove through the valleys of California to San Francisco and Pacific Grove and came back by the Placerville road. They had a very pleasant time and had no mishap on their journey.

A Distinguished Visitor.

Mrs. Emma Smith De Voe, a lady of national reputation, is here in the interest of equal suffrage and is a guest of Mrs. Elda A. Orr. A number of the friends of the cause were invited to meet the distinguished visitor at the residence of Mrs. Orr and were hospitably entertained and passed a very pleasant evening.

May be Expensive Amusement.

Several shots were fired at an early hour yesterday morning, most of them in the eastern part of town. A number of the residents of that quarter were aroused and it was thought that the officers were having a small battle with the tramp element. Later on it was discovered that it was "all for fun," but some of the residents don't look at it that way and have insisted on the town officers doing their duty. There is a statute against this character of amusement, the penalty of which is a fine of $100 or six months in the county jail or both, and from appearances last evening explanations may be in order.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE CONVENTION.

To Be Held at Reno Tuesday and Wednesday, October 29 and 30, 1895.

A State Mass Meeting hereby called by the National American Woman Suffrage Association, to be held in Reno, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 29th and 30th, for the purpose of organizing a Nevada State Suffrage Association.

The question of Woman Suffrage is aggressively before all the people of the Great West. The glorious example of Wyoming, where women have voted upon every question that men have for thirty years, has answered every objection of the opponent. She has demonstrated that none of the fancied ills, that theorists declared must follow the enfranchisement of women, have proved true in the actual experiment. Wyoming is to-day an unanswerable argument for the advantages for a Government which knows no sex. The progressive spirit of Nevada will not permit her to lag behind her neighbors in this line of march. The time to act is now. We earnestly request all the friends of the cause to be present at this mass meeting and to participate in its deliberations. Entertainment for delegates will be provided in the hospitable homes of Reno.

Friends wishing entertainment will please address Mrs. Elda A. Orr, Box 111, Reno, Nevada. An interesting program will be provided. Come one! Come all! Let this be an earnest and enthusiastic gathering which shall make an energetic protest against existing conditions—a fit prophecy of a new time coming when there shall be a higher and truer civilization.

A BIG SUIT.

Transactions Concerning the Late Sale of the Buckeye Mine Crippling Out.

Papers were filed in the District Court yesterday in the case of Chas. Higley vs. Philip Ruseak in which the plaintiff sues the defendant for $12,000. Dennis and Jones are attorneys for plaintiff. The suit is brought to recover from the late sale of the Buckeye mine, Higley having a large interest in the mine which Ruseak was instrumental in disposing of, but it seems made no settlement with Higley. When the latter's attorneys approached Ruseak for a settlement he offered to pay $1,000, giving as a reason for the payment that Higley was a poor man and he was willing to give him something. The suit promises to be an interesting one as it will serve to show up some of the intricacies of mining deals. A suit in equity will be instituted in connection with the above case and the result will be looked forward to with much interest.

OUR REVENUE.

The Figures of the Assessment Roll for 1895.

Recorder Shearer has about completed the extensions and footings on the assessment roll for the year 1895. The total valuation as returned by Assessor Evans was $5,123,936. The Board of Equalization made a number of reductions and changes in the valuations so that the roll now foots up to $4,923,370, a difference of $200,666 less than the Assessor's figures.

The total State and county tax as the roll now stands is $93,512 13. The State and county tax for 1894 was $96,381 60, the amount of this year's taxes as per the assessment roll is $2,866 47 less than last year. These figures do not include the personal property tax collected by the Assessor.

A Change Contemplated.

The stockholders of the First National Bank held a meeting yesterday and considered the advisability of changing the concern from the National banking system and organizing under the general banking laws of the State of Nevada. It will take some time to perfect the details of the change, but it is expected to have all arrangements made by the first of next year. To conserve the best interests of the corporation as well as the interests of the clients of the bank, makes the change advisable and the State laws under which the banking business will be conducted will give the corporation a larger field of usefulness as far as the business interests of this community as well as the State is concerned. It is believed that the change will be of great benefit to the cattle, farming and commercial interests hereabouts and will doubtless be received as a good omen for the future prosperity of our people and the success of the promised development of the town and county, and what helps the corporation is sure to help all.

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

A RENO LADY HONORED.

Sent to Atlanta as a Representative of the California Board of Trade.

EDITOR JOURNAL, DEAR SIR:—It may be of interest to some of your patrons and the residents of your town to learn that Miss K. S. Mallory, formerly of your place, has been chosen representative of the literary department of the California State Board of Trade at the Atlanta Exposition; virtually her duties will be reportorial.

To those best acquainted with Miss Mallory, it is a source of profound gratification that change of scene and climate, will, it is hoped, result in the improvement of her health and afford her financial relief. Physiognomically she is discernible in this estimable lady, indications of suffering, labor and anxiety, yet withal, the settled pallor of her intellectual face, but serves to intensify the expression of calm, dignified resignation so pre-eminently characteristic of her.

Let us fervently hope that her departure from us, although it be but for a temporary sojourn among our hospitable Southern people, may rehabilitate her health and moral courage; as some radical change would seem to be indispensable in prolonging her life.

Her intellectuality, affability, unimpeachable integrity, and dedication to her professional labor, united to a genial, self-sacrificing, lovable nature have won for her in this city many warm friends and credentials which should be a source of pride, not alone to her, but to those consanguineously allied to her.

Inspired with the belief that this brief letter of just encomium will be gratefully received by you, I remain with respect and best wishes for the prosperity of you and yours.

Most respectfully,
S. W. D.

LOCAL AND GENERAL NEWS.

Items From Here, There and Every-where.

People in Madison county, Ky., who have paid their taxes are entitled to be married free by the Sheriff.

Agent Wooten of the Pyramid reservation has gone to Fort McDowell on business connected with the contemplated Indian school at that place.

The case of Lynip vs. Buckner, involving the District Attorneyship of Humboldt county, remanded by the Supreme Court for a new trial, has been dismissed upon motion of D. S. Truman, attorney for plaintiff.

The News says a company has been formed in Carson Valley to establish a pork packing establishment not far from Gardnerville. The contract for the building has been let to Muckle & Elliott and work will soon begin on the proposed structure.

Taylor, the defaulting State Treasurer of South Dakota was sentenced to two years imprisonment for embezzling over $900,000 of the State's funds. A woman in San Francisco was recently sentenced to ten years imprisonment for embezzling $50. She had no "pull" with the authorities and did not have money enough to hire lawyers and fix the jury.

The Genoa Courier gives credit to the Rayerat boys for bringing the mines of Douglas county to the front. The mines are only bonded to Charles Lane, but that gentleman has commenced his prospecting work in earnest and will prosecute the same vigorously during the remainder of the year, and as we understand, will also commence the construction of an immense ditch to carry water to the mines just as soon as the engineering work is completed therefor.

Justice Court.

The case of Summerfield & Torreyson occupied Judge Linn and a jury all day yesterday and was concluded at an evening session of the Court. The amount sued for was $300. The arguments of the attorneys were concluded at the evening session and the case submitted. The jury was only out a few minutes and returned a unanimous verdict giving the plaintiffs a judgment for $298 25, $1 75 having been struck off the amount sued for. It was not known last evening whether the case would be appealed or not.

A Serious Charge

The Ploche Record says that two Italians named Joe DeLey and Margatoli are charged with the outrage of the 12-year-old Indian girl at DeLamar on Sunday a week ago. Both men deny the charge and the latter has been admitted to bail. The Indians were loud in their declarations and for a time trouble was feared, but they quieted down when assured that the matter would be thoroughly investigated and the guilty punished to the full extent of the law.

Love's Fidelity.

A Michigan avenue youth was dilating to a friend upon the charms of his adored one. His friend was disposed to distrust somewhat the accuracy of the young man's vision.

"She is beautiful, you say?"

"As a star!"

"And rich?"

"Bah! I know not nor care."

"True, that is a secondary consideration. But is she very wise?"

"Wiser than Solomon!"

"Excellent. I suppose she is also of fine family?"

"Family, my boy? Family? Why, that girl has a family tree that would shade Lincoln park!"—Chicago Times-Herald.

True Courage.

True courage is cool and calm. The bravest of men have the least of a brutal, bullying insolence, and in the very time of danger are for all the most serene, pleasant and free. Rage, we know, can make a coward forget his duty and fight. But what is done in fury and anger can never be held to the account of courage.—Lord Shaftesbury.

Eczema on Face, Neck and Hands

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cured All Impurity.

"Our son Augustus was very severely troubled with eczema. Sores broke out on his face, neck and hands, and the slightest scratch on his hands would break out in bad sores. We persuaded him to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and it has been two or three months since he has been troubled. His hands are quite smooth. Our nephew, Edgar P. Shaw, who lives with us, was afflicted similarly only his case was more severe, accompanied by scrofulous humors on his neck. He has taken four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and is now well. His skin is as smooth as any one could wish, and the rashes on his neck have disappeared." Mrs. M. J. GRAHAM, Box 173, Tullahoma, Ind. Ter.

ABOUT ELEPHANTS.

BELIEF THAT THEY ARE ENDOWED WITH SUPERIOR INTELLIGENCE.

They Have Mental Qualities Not Possessed by Other Animals—Interesting Stories About Them—The First One Brought to This Country.

Elephants never go to sleep without leaving one of the herd awake to keep watch and give warning in case of intrusion. Go into the big menagerie tent and the show any night after the elephants have gone to sleep, or go into one of the elephant pens on a night run, and you will find that, no matter how quietly and stealthily you have entered, the ears of one member of the herd is upon you.

Children believe, as do most all elephant keepers, that the animal can understand what is said to it. Indeed, it is a fact that it has more intelligence than any other animal, and that it is the only one that can be taught to reply by word of mouth, without other aids. That it is endowed to a limited extent with reasoning powers is certain. One German philosopher thinks he has discovered that this mental development is due to the fact that in the trunk the elephant possesses a prehensile organ similar to the hand of man. The hand, he asserts, has played a more important part in the development of the human intellect than any other agency, since it brings its possessor into more intimate relations with the external world than any other organ. Some menagerie men, with more practical observation than the German professor and a smaller bump of theorizing, has pointed out that the only flaw in this reasoning is that if it is correct the gorillas and chimpanzees ought to have a higher mental development than man, because they have four good hands instead of two, and any one of the four is stronger than the eight hands of four men.

Well authenticated stories of the sagacity of elephants are so numerous that it is never necessary to resort to exaggeration to say something interesting about them. In their wild state the leader of a herd has been seen when approaching swampy ground to extend one foot to try its solidity before trusting his weight to it. When satisfied of its firmness, he would go confidently on, and the whole herd would follow in single file, cautiously stepping in the footprints of the leader, so that when the entire herd had thus passed the ground would look as if a single animal had gone that way. The same trait of caution is preserved in the domesticated animal. The action is not the result of training, but a brute instinct always displayed and bearing a striking resemblance to reason.

When Jumbo tried to butt a fast freight off from the Grand Trunk tracks in an effort to save the baby of the Barnum herd, Tom Thumb, and lost his life in the attempt, it was said that his action gave unmistakable evidence of reason, though it was poor testimony to his judgment that he so greatly underestimated the force of the locomotive.

In the matter of the food value of different materials the reasoning power of the elephant is very faulty, however. He will eat almost anything that comes his way. If a canvassman leaves a coat or vest hanging on a quarter pole within reach of an elephant, the big brute will edge over toward it and with an opportunity when unobserved to touch it with his trunk. Then he will begin to haul it toward him, putting in rolls of hay and chewing them between times. As soon as the garment is at his feet the elephant will put one of his ponderous five hooved pedals on it and begin to tear it up, rolling the pieces in his trunk and stuffing them into his mouth. The color of a shoe is just as good for him to chew on as a wisp of hay, and his natural instinct of mischief inclines him to prefer that which he knows is forbidden him.

The first elephant brought to America for exhibition purposes was Old Bet, and it has often been remarked that the American circus was built on her shoulders. Different accounts fail to agree in regard to the date of her importation, which is placed all the way from 1776 to 1833 by different writers of old time reminiscences. Old Bet was brought over in the ship America, of which Captain Crowningshield was master, and she landed, according to the harbor records, in Philadelphia in April, 1798. She was 1 1/2 to 2 feet high, and the sum of $10,000 was paid for her, the largest price that had been paid up to that time for any animal, either here or in Europe. She was first exhibited in Philadelphia and astonished the public daily by drawing the corks from 30 bottles of beer and drinking the contents. On the 20th of June, 1799, she passed through New York on the way to Boston.

Old Bet had been bought on the community plan by a number of farmers of Putnam county, N. Y., at the instance of one Ludwig Bistadler, each mortgaging his farm and putting $500 into the venture. They exhibited her under various sheds at hotels by putting a piece of side canvas up in front of the shed. The admission was 25 cents for adults and 12 1/2 cents, or a York shilling, for children. This gigantic zoological institute, as the caravan was called, traveled east as far as Pawtucket, R. I., where the elephant, in spite of its docile disposition, was shot and killed. As the "institute" contained no other attractions the show closed. The same proprietors then imported a second elephant, which they also called Old Bet, and they enlarged their exhibition by adding to the collection a lion and a two horse cage and one monkey in a box strapped on to the hind end of the lion's cage. The second Old Bet landed in 1838. Following her to these shores the next pachyderm to arrive seems to have been Mogul, a very big fellow with long tusks, who was burned on the steamer Royal Tar between St. John's and Portland, Me.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Dogs are least abundant on islands and on ships in midocean. Seamen warning land can tell that fact by reason of the deposits of dew on the vessel.

A clergyman was censuring a lady for tight lacing. "Well," replied she, "would you recommend loose habits to your parishioners?"

THE VEILED WARSER.

A Street Singer That Puzzled the French Capital For Three Months.

Once, and once only, was it given to Paris to be puzzled by a street singer. The apparition only lasted three months, but while it lasted it was most perplexing to us. One evening all the loungers on the boulevards, who were sipping their beer, or "strangling a parrot," as the French phrase hath it to describe the process of imbibing a dose of that subtle poison, absinth, were mildly bored by observing the approach of three street musicians. One man trundled a piano, a second carried a violin and a third, a tall, light woman in deep mourning, her crape veil sweeping over her face, took up her station between them. They paused and prepared for action, whereupon many people, knowing the wiliness and discord of street music, made ready to leave, when, to the utter amazement of all, to the accompaniment of two fairly good instruments, arose in the night air an exquisitely modulated and very powerful female voice, singing, with a heartbreak in every note, the wild wail of Traviata over her approaching death, "Gran Dio, morir si giovane."

Perhaps the voice gained by the surprise of the public, perhaps it was aided by the stillness of the sultry air, but certainly it sounded most divine. Thunders of applause and a rain of coin, both gold and silver, rewarded the trio's efforts, but they never gave up two songs per evening and then disappeared. The adventurous men who followed the supple grace of the woman's tall figure returned discomfited, scared away by the truculent aspect of her two companions. During that whole summer the strange band would reappear every night, and every night would reap a harvest, but when the summer departed they, too, vanished and never again reappeared. The Veiled Songstress, as she was called, came from the darkness and vanished into the night, and who she was or where she vanished is a mystery. Of course the police knew, but the archives of the prefecture are sacred from the gaze of the profane, and as that is the case, and as Paris forgets as speedily as she adores wildly, we had the arithmetical puzzle, inasmuch as the lightning calculator, to distract our attention that autumn in front of the cafe, so the Veiled Songstress sank out of sight, and the waves of oblivion have covered over her now and forever.—Paris Letter.

GREENLAND'S SUMMER.

Professor Heliopin Corrects Some Popular Misconceptions About It.

As with many of the foreign countries, there is a wrong impression existing in the minds even of well bred persons with reference to the nature of the peninsula of Greenland. It is supposed to be a cheerless waste of ice and snow, and indeed a land of desolation. On first acquaintance the country does not seem calculated to inspire enthusiasm, but this feeling soon wears away and the returned traveler from Greenland is smitten with "the arctic fever," the principal symptom of which is a longing to return to these northern shores. Professor Angelo Heliopin, in his interesting account of the Peary relief expedition conducted by him, thus speaks of Greenland:

"Once the foot has been set upon the mirrored rocks the charms of this garden spot are by one unfold themselves. The little patches of green are aglow with bright flowers, rich in the colors which a bounteous nature has provided. The botanical eye readily distinguished among these mountain plink, the dwarf rhododendron, several pieces of peach, the crowfoot, chickweed and poppy, with their varying tints of red, white and yellow. Gay butterflies flit through the warm sunships, casting their shadows over 'forests' of diminutive birch and willow.

"Here and there a stray bee hums in search of sweets among the pollen grains, while, from afar, woven through the music of gurgling rills and brooks, come the melodious strains of thousands of mosquitoes, who ever cheerfully lend their aid to give voice to the landscape. Above this peaceful scene tower the dark red cliffs of basalt, which from a height of 2,000 feet look down on a sea of Mediterranean loveliness, blue as the waters of Villafraia and calm as the surface of an interior lake. Over its broad floor hundreds of icebergs, the output of the great Jacobshavn glacier, 50 miles to the eastward, scattered like flocks of white sheep in pasture.

"Such was the summer picture of the region about Disco as it was found by the writer in two successive seasons. There was little of that Greenland look about it which we habitually associate with the region, nothing of those terrors which to the average mind reflect the qualities of the arctic world."
